Description	The Project has prepared the feasibility of and proposals for an investment project to help achieve the goal of sustainable urban development and poverty reduction in the North Eastern Region by upgrading urban infrastructure in the five project cities (Agartala, Aizwal, Gangtok, Kohima, and Shillong). The output includes project feasibility studies for the eight project cities, a main consolidated report, separate technical reports on the key social and environmental safeguard issues and institutional and capacity building. Each city report covers, among others, (i) city economic development strategy, (ii) infrastructure investment program, (iii) urban management improvement program, and (iv) poverty reduction program.
Project Rationale and Linkage to Country/Regional Strategy	In line with ADB's support for disadvantaged and backward states, the Project will form an integral part of ADB assistance to the northeastern region for infrastructure investments and urban institutional reform. Other sectors to receive assistance from ADB include power and transport. Such integrated support is expected to bring major investments to the regional economy, complemented by broad reforms in all sectors. The urban sector intervention presents a unique opportunity for ADB to address widespread poverty in the region through well-designed state and community initiatives.
